KEY MANAGEMENT PERSONNEL

SECURITIES TRADING POLICY

1. Generally

1.1 FarmaForce Pty Ltd ACN 167 748 843 (the Company) has adopted this Securities Trading Policy (Policy) which regulates dealings in shares, options and other securities issued by the Company by the following :

1.1.1 directors and key management personnel of the Company;

1.1.2 directors and key management personnel of each of the Company's wholly owned subsidiaries (if any), (in this Policy, referred to as restricted persons).

1.2 In this policy, key management personnel are those persons having authority and responsibility for planning, directing and controlling the activities of the entity, directly or indirectly as defined in Australian Accounting Standard AASB 124 "Related Party Disclosure".

1.3 The rationale for the Policy is to ensure that restricted persons are aware of the legal restrictions on trading the Company securities while a person is in possession of unpublished Company price-sensitive information and to impose certain closed periods during which trading is prima facie prohibited.

1.4 Also, in order to preserve the reputation and integrity of the Company, it is vital that when people associated with the Company deal in the Company's securities those dealings are not only fair, but are seen to be fair. When restricted persons deal in securities of the Company they must be sure that it does not reflect improperly on them or the Company.

1.5 It is important to also note that although this Policy only applies to the restricted persons specified above, the insider trading prohibitions set out in the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth) (Corporations Act) and discussed in paragraphs 3 and 8 below, apply to all persons (whether inside or outside of the company).

2. Standards

2.1 All restricted persons should ensure that all transactions in the Company's securities or other Company securities which may be issued from time to time by the Company (Company securities) comply with:

2.1.1 the Corporations Act and Regulations (particularly the insider trading provisions); and

2.1.2 the ASX Listing Rules (particularly the continuous disclosure requirements in Listing Rule 3.1 and the disclosure of the director's interests in accordance with Listing Rule 3.19A).

3. The insider trading provisions

3.1 The insider trading provisions of the Corporations Act (Insider Trading Provisions) operate to prohibit a person (which includes a company) in possession of "inside information" about financial products (including shares) from:

3.1.1 applying for, acquiring or disposing of those financial products (or entering into an agreement to do so) (the trading offence);

3.1.2 “procuring” another person to do any of the things set out in paragraph (a) (the procuring offence); and

3.1.3 in some cases where the financial products are able to be traded on a financial market, restricted persons are prohibited from directly or indirectly communicating, or causing to be communicated, that information to any other person if they know, or ought reasonably to know, that the person would or would be likely to use the information to engage in the activities specified in paragraphs 3.1.2 or 3.1.3 above.

3.2 A person will be taken to have procured another if that person incites, induces, or encourages or causes an act or omission by another person.

3.3 These prohibitions apply equally to the application for, grant, exercise or transfer of an option over the Company’s Securities.

3.4 It does not matter how or in what capacity restricted persons become aware of the Inside information. It does not have to be obtained from the Company to constitute inside information.

3.5 Restricted persons cannot avoid the insider trading prohibition by arranging for a member of their family or an associate to deal in the Company’s Securities nor are they able to give “tips” concerning Inside information relating to the Company to others, including clients.

4. What is inside information?

4.1 “Inside information”, is information relating to the Company which is not “generally available” and information which a reasonable person would expect to have a “material effect on the price” or value of the Company’s securities.

4.2 Importantly, inside Information can include matters of speculation or supposition and matters relating to intentions or likely intentions of a person, provided if the information were generally available, it would likely have a material effect on the price or value of the Company’s Securities.

4.3 Information is commonly held to be likely to have a material effect in circumstances where it would, or would be likely to, influence those people who commonly invest in securities or other traded financial products in deciding whether or not to deal in the Company’s Securities.

4.4 Some examples of information which could be inside information are:

4.4.1 proposed dividends;

4.4.2 profit forecasts;

4.4.3 significant litigation;

4.4.4 unpublished information regarding the Company’s financial performance;

4.4.5 unpublished announcements, or knowledge of possible regulatory investigation;

4.4.6 changes in the capital structure of the Company; or

4.4.1 proposed changes in the Company's capital structure, including issues of securities, right and buy-backs changes in the Company's actual or anticipated financial condition or business performance.

4.5 When is information generally available?

Information is considered to be generally available if it:

4.5.1 is readily observable; (for example, published in the press, or in marketing communications);

4.5.2 has been made known in a manner likely to bring it to the attention of persons who commonly invest in securities of a kind whose price or value might be affected by the information (e.g. by way of an ASX announcement) and, since the information was made known, a reasonable period has elapsed; or

4.5.1 consists of deductions, conclusions or inferences made or drawn from information referred to in paragraphs (a) or (b) above.

5. Restrictions on trading and dealing
